TIMEBANKPRO

Boost knowledge sharing, answers to specific needs, cohesion and well-being,

by promoting exchanges between employees

Do you know what "a timebank" is?

A "timebank" is a network of people who use time as a currency to exchange services. Timebanks appeared for the general public in Japan in the 1950s, then in the USA. TIMEBANKPRO is a "timebank" designed for companies or institutions, aimed at stimulating skills sharing between employees. Using an internal virtual currency allows both fair exchanges between users and monitoring the volume of exchanges. Each company or establishment gets its own timebank.

Facilitate the response to specific needs, and the expression/use of talents

TIMEBANKPRO is a "marketplace" which includes a "service offer" part and a "service demand" part.

On the "offer" part, users can describe their specific skills, talents, passions.

A user who offers a service earns "points", i.e. time credits, once the service provided. Those time credits are counted with our time-based currency, the CELT (1 hour of service = 1 CELT), which a user can then use by benefiting from a service provided from another user of his company or establishment.

Thus, with your skills marketplace, you will be able to promote peer-to-peer training, mentoring, and overall cross-functionality in the company.

Onboarding, for seniors or for the Y and Z generations, is also facilitated.

You will also be able to better identify the skills of users, whether they are "hard skills" or "soft skills", by defining yourself, as you go, the categories of skills utilised on your platform.

Teambuilding is facilitated by taking into account the exchanges taking place and new contacts between users, .

Promote community spirit, cohesion, well-being and therefore commitment

"Relationships with others in the company play a key role in our well-being at work. It starts with a simple but powerful feeling of belonging to a community." -

Eric Singer, Nudge management

When your company or establishment implements an internal marketplace for skills sharing, your company as a whole should choose the kind of service sharing that will be allowed: professional services only and/or also the sharing of personal services. Your company's choice may also change over time.

"If in a company, we show ourselves with a very small part of who we are, we only invest a very small part of our energy and creativity" -

Frédéric Laloux, Reinventing organizations

As a company or institution, you can therefore choose to allow users to share services, talents or passions of a more personal nature, on specific time slots, or days specially dedicated to well-being at work.

Regardless of the type of services exchanged, a timebank develops a sense of belonging and cohesion, one of the pillars of commitment. The presence of "friends" at work makes it possible to perceive everyday life in the company in a much more positive way. Relationships with colleagues is often considered as the number one factor in corporate well-being.

The personalized timebank for your company or establishment

With TIMEBANKPRO, your company or establishment gets its own timebank and personalized homepage (with a web address such as www.yourcompany.timebankpro.com).

Our platforms are available as a SaaS (Software as a Service) offer, hosted by us at OVH.com, with updates included, backups, security, IT support.

TIMEBANKPRO is available on mobile phones and computers, adapts to the size of users' screens, and is in french for the current version (english and spanish versions are currently being developed). GDPR data protection regulation is taken into account in our development.

Your company's group of administrators (in case you decide to have internal administrators), has access to a dashboard, which allows viewing the volume of service exchanges on your timebank, and if necessary to moderate announcements, as well as to configure your platform in a flexible way throughout its use.

Together, we will define your timebank's condition of use: the type of authorized services, professional and/or personal, if you want to privilege offers or requests, the different categories of services, the specific categories of prohibited services, if you want to activate the virtual time based currency (knowing that the platform can operate without it), if the services can be exchanged during working hours and at the workplace, and/or outside the company or establishment.

These elements will be summed up in your timebank's specific charter of use. We can also help with the launch communication plan and we are available to coach your facilitators.

Our subscription offer is priced according to the number of employees of your company or establishment. We can assist you in setting up this experimentation (advice, animation, moderation).

Request now your TIMEBANKPRO's demo ! We offer you a free and no obligation experiment of 2 months.
